Be prepared for stormy weather

Our Hurricane Protection Unit provides expert advice when its needed most—before a storm hits. This service is available to policyholders of AIG Private Client Group, a division of the member companies of American International Group, Inc. (AIG), who reside within designated response areas.1

Managing risk, preventing loss

Personalized planning
Because each home has unique vulnerabilities, our specialists can conduct a virtual or on-site evaluation and map out suggestions to maximize preparedness well in advance of an oncoming storm. If necessary we can work one on one with you to develop a customized plan specific to your home with actionable steps to help prepare your home and family.

Post-storm outreach
We closely track the progress and projected landfall of approaching storms. Based on this information, we identify homes that are likely to be the most vulnerable. After landfall we make every effort to contact our affected policyholders to assist in expediting the claims process and provide connections to qualified restoration companies to help our enrollees recover as quickly as possible.

Prepare for what could happen

Everyone residing in a hurricane-prone area can benefit from pre-season preparation. Use the following to help determine your level of vulnerability:

- Do you already have a storm preparedness plan in place?
- Is your home built to current wind-related building codes, with material meant to withstand hurricane force winds?
- Do you have impact rated windows/doors or a storm shutter system to protect all openings and if so, is the system in good condition and able to be deployed?
- If you own fine art, what must be done in order to properly protect the items in your collection?
- Is there a back-up generator on the premises and has it been serviced prior to hurricane season?
- Which of your furnishings and personal possessions are most susceptible to damage and do you have a plan and/or items needed to do so?
- Is there any outdoor furniture, grills, planters, or sculptures that could be damaged or become airborne?
- If you own watercraft, what precautions have you taken to lessen the likelihood of damage?
